News reached us on the morning of the 5th instant of a piratical attack upon a large native Junk, just between this port and Wesebow. It seems that a large Tientsin junk, laden with a general cargo, and on the way from Shanghai to Cauton, was maylaid by three pirate junks and nearly all the valuable cargo pillaged. Shots were archanged between the pirate tessels and their prey, and the latter received a shot between wind and water which necessitated her running this port, and there the vessel was beached. loss sustained by the unfortunate vessel consists of 4 of her crew being killed, and five or six men wounded, while that of the pirates is not known. The Chinese connected with the merchant junk say that the pirates are a portion of the Ningpo lot which are not yet wholly exterminated. From what we can learn, a petition is to be presented to the Provincial Authorities to-day or to morrow by the unfortunate people, seeking redress at the hands of the officials. - Herold.

The Japanese papers contain little news. The Mos Night states that the Higei-kan, iron sheathed corrette, one of the three constructed by Sir E. J. There are some matters best and most pleasantly consigned to the limbo of forgetfulness, nor have we say desire to rake up oircumstances which reflect little credit upon certain section of this community and which cannot but be a source of painful retrespect for all. At the same time we find it difficult to avoid the reflection that Mr. Dohmen's impaired health is not entirely unconnected with the ungenerous, and for the most part unjustifiable, treatment he received at the hands of a few Englishmen, who, unfortunately for the reputation of Yokohama and their own peace of mind, found themselves in a position to make their voices heard. We will not pause to consider what their feelings must be at this moment, confining ourselves rather to a wish that Mr. Dohmen's recovery may be speedy and that he may soon be able to resume his duties under happier auspices. Mr. Dohmen's place is to be filled by Mr. Enslie. This appointment will, we believe, be welcomed with sincere pleasure by our whole community. In noticing the fact that the value of Mother of Pearl Shell experted from the Philippines in 1880 is estimated only at $77,504, the Comercia makes the following remarks :- This maritime product

also abounds in our seas, especially in the Marianne and Caroline islands, which might derive a handsome profit by turning to account such shells, both of common and rare descriptions, were the islanders more setive and industrious, or were, in default, enterprising people to stimulate them to become so. Efforts are now being made to shorten and make more frequent the communication between Manila and these islands, but the resulting expense will be great, without any prospect at present of increasing trade between this port and them, though their productions are similar, owing to the high freights ruling naturally making such almost impossible. Matters being so, the commercial development of the Mariannes and Carolines and their fature preservity can only be ensured by facilitating gommanications between ther, and Chins, Australia, and other countries of Asia and in the Pacific, as was clearly shown in a report on the said islands drawn up by General La Corte, who was Governor there, after inany years of careful observation on the spot. This marine produce, effectually turned to account may, at some future time, bear the considerable freights we have referred to, the high rates of which are justifiable by the length of the passage and also by the smallness of such cargoes at present. It generally realises satisfactory prices considering its small bulk.

That which comes to Manila, the depot for its expertation, is included amongst the similar products of the Philippine islands. Regarding mother of pearl shell, it may be added that the opening of the port of Scoloo has caused the shipment therefrom direct to Singapore of what used to be brought to Manila. -Straits Times.

The Earl of Ormonde, Lord Deputy, reported that the Superior Courts could be held inside the church, whilst the prebendal and canonry houses would form suitable residences for the judges and lawyers. The Archbishop of Dublin naturally remonstrated but he was told that the Cathedral of Christ Church, which Henry VIII. had founded, was quite enough for the wants of the city or the diocese. And the Courts would appear to have been held in St. Patrick's until the year 1553, when King Philip and Queen Mary addressed a letter to Sir Thomas Cusack, Lord Chancellor of Ireland, desiring him "for the glory of God, and the advancement of his service and true worde, to restore the cathedral church and chapter of St. Patrick to its pristine state." In the reign of James I. the lawyers appropriated the residence of the Deans of Christ Church, and the Law Courts removed Valparaiso, Japan, China, New Zealand, the from the house called the "Innes" to the new buildings, which now received the appellation of the " King's Court."
